Kieran Stanley – Architect

Kieran Stanley is co-founder and CEO of the architectural firm dan pearlman Experience Architecture. Early on he discovered his passion for architecture and landscape architecture in the leisure segment. In the 1990s, soon after completing his architectural studies at Trinity College in Dublin, he was involved in realising several immersive environments at the Erlebnis-Zoo Hannover and began specialising in zoo design. For Kieran Stanley and his team, experiences are the main focus – whether it's a matter of explaining why penguins live in the Canadian town of Yukon Bay or what makes the island world of Southeast Asia so special. As a consultant, Kieran Stanley speaks at conferences and universities about zoo and leisure architecture, story building and transforming leisure destinations into brands. He is a member of the Berlin Chamber of Architects as well as several zoo and leisure associations.
