Shades of Green - Celebrating Irish-America

The Ambassador of Ireland to the United States, Daniel Mulhall, has announced details of a St Patrick's Day celebration of Irish-America, which he will host on evening of Wednesday 17 March, alongside Ireland's Consuls General in Atlanta, Austin, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York & San Francisco.

Titled "Shades of Green", the program will feature performers from across America and Ireland, as well as more than a dozen exceptional Irish-Americans, who will reflect on the community's history and traditions as well as the resilience we have shown in response to COVID-19. Alongside a special St Patrick's Day message from Taoiseach Micheál Martin, the evening will include a poetic tribute to President Biden and a commemoration of those our community has lost over the past year.

CELEBRATING IRISH-AMERICA
ST. PATRICK'S DAY 2021

Amongst the artists contributing to the celebration are Rosanne Cash, Eimear Noone, We Banjo 3, Kíla, Aoife O'Donovan, Jerron "Blind Boy" Paxton, Nora Brown with Megan Downes, Morgan Bullock, Gregory Harrington, Danielle Enblom, Aedin Moloney, Patrick Dexter and the Arturo O'Farrill Quartet.

Shades of Green has been developed in partnership with a range of Irish community organisations, including the Association of Irish & Celtic Festival; Irish Arts Center in New York; Irish Network USA; the Network of Irish Cultural Centers of North America; and the New York Irish Center, as well as Culture Ireland and Tourism Ireland. Shades of Green is produced and directed by Jeremy Handelman, Off the Leash Productions.

The program will be broadcast on www.ireland.ie/usa from 7.30PM Eastern Time on Wednesday 17 March.
